

Social Innovator Fellows 2013-2014

Grace Wagoneka, 24 years

A lawyer by profession, Grace works with girls between 14 and 18 years of age in marginalized communities. She is determined to end child marriages through self-empowerment, life skills coaching and human rights awareness. This fellowship will help her to come up with a sustainable model for her work.

Obrie Rugube, 21 years

He is currently a 3rd year student at the Midlands State University studying for a BCom in Finance. An active student peer educator, executive member of the Students Representative Council and a Boost fellow, Obrie is passionate about youth sexual and reproductive health issues. During the fellowship, Obrie will be working on developing a quality and affordable condom that university students will like.

Rachel Chitsungo, 25years

She holds a Bachelor of Social Science in Politics and International Relations and Sociology. She is currently working with Cordaid Zimbabwe, which runs a Results Based Financing programme for Health care delivery in 18 rural districts in Zimbabwe, on behalf of the World Bank. During the fellowship, Rachel will work on developing a system that will ensure health care accountability by health professionals to the clients they serve in Zimbabwe.

Garikai Musuta, 26years

A logistics professional who is passionate about efficient distribution of goods especially information, Garikai loves chess and computers. In a country where extra school lessons have become the norm, Garikai is determined to make information more accessible to people. During the fellowship Garikai will be working on developing a podcast for every subject in school.

Thokozile Mhlanga, 24years

A final year student at Solusi University majoring in Peace and conflict studies with a minor in Development studies, Thoko is very enthusiastic about development issues where every individual in the community lives a healthy life. During the fellowship, she will be working to develop a solar home that is affordable and accessible to people.

Walter Rambwi, 25years

Founder of Zimotive an educational enterprise premised on equipping and inspiring young people to become peak performers. He holds a Bsc in Sociology from the University of Zimbabwe. He is determined to make youth personal development an integral part of the mainstream education. This fellowship will help him to establish an educational program that will enrich and empower young people beyond the traditional classroom learning.

Tawanda Kembo

A serial Tech Entrepreneur with a BSc in Computer Science, Tawanda has a strong Information Technology background and the business acumen to turn ideas into products. His first start-up, ipaidabribe.org.zw is now the most popular way of reporting corruption in Zimbabwe. During the fellowship, Tawanda will be working on developing a computer game called 'kombi' that will raise awareness on the dangers of corruption.
